

Biography for Neema Joseph Severua

Miss. Neema Joseph Severua is a Senior Health Laboratory Technologist of the National Institute for Medical Research (NIMR). As a senior Laboratory Technologist, she has the following responsibilities, to assist in routine laboratory activities, to train and supervise junior laboratory staffs, Perform a variety of technical laboratory procedures according to the study protocol, laboratory and international standards. She is responsible for accurate completing records and report and other laboratory statistical information for master files or data base as per study protocol and procedures, and also participate in Quality Control/Quality Assurance for area of specialty and laboratory indicators. Recognizes out of control values, take corrective action, and notifies others changes. To conduct on job training and coaching to new staffs, junior and students who are in practical training. To carry out administrative duties for smooth running of the laboratories. Miss. Neema Joseph Severua, she is currently a Deputy head of Molecular Biology Laboratory unit with an overall responsibility for providing, designing, implements and maintains the quality management system to ensures that the necessary material resources, as well as the necessary information are available to enable effective operation and control of the processes of the quality management system in the unit.

Being a Laboratory technologist over 4 years, she has an extensive experience in molecular analysis techniques including malaria vectors and parasites genotyping, determination of malaria vectors resistant's markers and other types of resistant's'. And also have extensive experience on behavior & ecology of malaria vectors.

Miss. Neema Joseph Severua have a Diploma in Medical Laboratory Sciences from Singida Medical training Centre who registered as a member for Medical Laboratory Scientist Association of Tanzania (MeLSAT).